The Statewide Voice for New York's
Hospitals and Health Systems

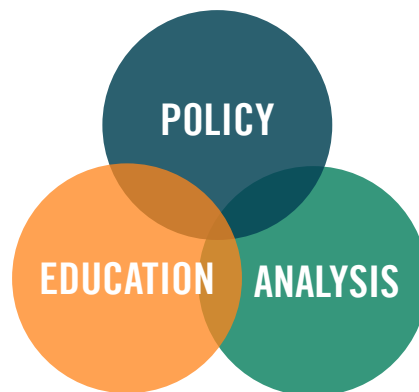

Our members

More than 19 million New Yorkers are served by HANYS' nonprofit and public member organizations:

Membership-driven

HANYS values close member partnerships to ensure that our policy agenda and activities reflect the needs of our members. HANYS collaborates and engages with our member executives and staff through committees, task forces, one-on-one member site visits and customized presentations covering a wide variety of health finance, quality, governmental affairs and regulatory priority issues.

Our expert staff, data resources, grassroots advocacy, extensive clinical and operational experience and political acumen enable us to positively influence the outcome of important health policy debates in Albany and Washington. We are constantly working to provide the resources and guidance our members need to lead their organizations.

Message from the President

Marie B. Grause, RN, JD | President, HANYS

Now in our 98th year, HANYS is committed to supporting and serving our members as they work to provide high-quality, compassionate and equitable care in their communities.

The pandemic is shifting to an endemic state and our members are grappling with a workforce shortage crisis and permanently changed cost structure. As the statewide trade association for New York's nonprofit and public hospitals, health systems and continuing care providers, we are fighting on all fronts to protect and strengthen healthcare providers in this new environment.

In 2023, HANYS will continue to achieve our mission through comprehensive and aggressive federal and state advocacy agendas, data-informed solutions, and engaging our membership in dialogue and education.

Give me a call at 518.431.7765 or email me at bgrause@hanys.org to discuss how we can best support your organization and community.

WHAT WE DO

Leading healthcare advocacy

State governmental affairs

HANYS' state governmental affairs team leads the strategic development of our state legislative policy agenda in Albany, including advocacy on budget, legislative and regulatory issues. HANYS works with key advocacy partners and coalitions to advance proactive policies that support our members.

Federal governmental affairs

With an office based in Washington, D.C., HANYS' federal governmental affairs team advocates to protect hospitals and healthcare systems from reductions and negative policy changes to Medicare and Medicaid, while seeking to enhance and improve federal programs impacting our members. HANYS and our federal advocacy partners, including the American Hospital Association, Association of American Medical Colleges and others, leverage members' grassroots advocacy and strong relationships with New York's congressional delegation to impact public policy debates.

Premier educational programs

HANYS offers high-quality educational programming to healthcare professionals across the continuum of care. Our programs are delivered by industry experts and HANYS staff to help our members succeed in today's era of healthcare transformation.

Expert policy analysis

With extensive knowledge, experience and specialized skill sets in the areas highlighted below, our policy experts work side by side with members to support and advance healthcare in New York state. We are available around the clock to provide one-on-one support to members.
